Hawks win final consolation game

By RICH ADAMS
Sports Editor

The Hancock North Central Hawks defeated Haughton, La. 70-54 in the final game of the consolation match Saturday afternoon in the Mississippi Gulf Coast Jaycee Holiday Classic Basketball Tournament.

The Hawks maintained a constant lead throughout the second half in the win at the Gulf Coast Coliseum in Biloxi. "During the second half we began to think on defense and apply pressure," said Hawk Head Coach Roland Ladner. "Haughton has a better shooting team, they have the quickness, but we had the height. We began to play on a team concept," the coach added. Hancock ran into early foul trouble as Center Steve Nunn fouled out midway in the fourth period.

Coach Ladner attributed the fouls to switching from a zone defense to man-on-man play.

At halftime the Hawks held a slight 29-28 lead over the Buccaneers. The HNC defense was helpless against the accurate outside shots of the Buccaneers late in the first half, but began to pressure the Haughtons, La.

Officials reveal January appointments

Ladner picks Franckiewicz for Port Commission post

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Beat 3 Supervisor-elect Roger Dale Ladner said Friday he will appoint Victor Franckiewicz Jr. to the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, replacing Commission President J.D. McCulloch.

Ladner's decision is so far the only definite change in appointees to the port commission, all of the members of which body must be reappointed or replaced in January.

However, when Mayor Larry Bennett of Bay St. Louis was questioned Friday regarding his appointment to the commission, he said, "Until I discuss this with the council I can't make a decision."

Bennett previously appointed Fred Curet to the port group.

Mayor John Longo stated, "I will reappoint Jimmy DeBlanc as Waveland's representative to the Port and Harbor Commission at a 7:30 p.m. Jan. 1 board of aldermen's meeting."

Beat 2 Supervisor Dolph Kellar, president of the Hancock Board of Supervisors, said, "I will reappoint Oliver Frierson to the port commission and Delmer Wilcox to the Welfare Department but there is an opening on the Park Commission I have not filled yet."

Perry Gibson vacated the Park Commission position after his County Hospital Board appointment by Kellar. Beat 1 Supervisor Bert Courge stated he would not have any changes in his previous appointments.

Chamber votes policy changes

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors held a special meeting Thursday evening in executive session at the organization's offices to discuss administrative matters.

The meeting was called by Vice President Dick Thomas and Board Members Sonny Bailey, Milford Lady and Rev. Charles Clark.

Thomas was presiding officer. According to Chamber President Wayne Duomb, the board:

Authorized the president free access to chamber files;

Directed the executive secretary to prepare a monthly itemized listing of expenditures and income other than dues for the board of directors, on a trial basis for the first quarter of 1980;

Authorized the president be provided a key to chamber offices;

Requested the executive secretary to retain all tourist inquiries and to turn these over to the president;

Requested the president form a policy committee to define the duties of the staff, officers and board of directors;

Passed a resolution voicing support to the president and the executive secretary.

Molester treated humanely

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A 63-year-old Tarpon Springs, Fla. resident was found guilty Friday before Bay St. Louis City Judge Joseph Benvenuti in connection with an alleged molesting of two minors Christmas morning, according to Police Chief Douglas Williams.

Williams identified the man as Herman G. Gravely.

"Gravely was taken to City Court in Bay St. Louis, Friday, Dec. 28 and found guilty of child molesting and was fined $1,000 on each count," the police chief said.

Gravely was also given a six month

Fire claims car, truck in Kiln

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A car was completely destroyed and a beer delivery truck damaged by fire Thursday on the Hwy. 603 shoulder in front of the Kiln Library.

The car was owned by Chambers' Garage and the truck by F.E.B. Distributing Company, both in Gulfport.

Verlin Cuevas, mechanic for Chambers Garage, was working on the carburetor of the truck when the fire started. He said, "While trying to start the truck, it back fired and caught on fire."

E.J. Malley, driver for F.E.B., said the truck broke down and he called the garage.

John Perkins, assistant fire chief, Waveland Fire Department, was traveling on Hwy. 603 and was only a few feet from the truck when he said he saw it blow.

Perkins added, "I felt silly with nothing to fight the fire until the fire engines arrived."

The Kiln Fire Department truck is broken down according to reports. Fire units arrived on the scene from Diamondhead, Bay St. Louis and Waveland, in addition to Kiln firemen and Hancock County Firemen's Association members.

The accident was investigated by Fairley Ncaise and Nathan Hoda, Hancock County Sheriff's Deputies; Hershel Ladner and Curtis Newman, highway patrolmen. Members of Waveland Police department also responded.

Cuevas said, "It singed my arm and also my eyes when the flames went up."

Kent Malley was helped on the delivery truck.

CLOSE CALL IN KILN—Verlin Cuevas, mechanic for Chambers Garage, Gulfport, was working on this beer truck in front of the Kiln Library when he said it back fired and the carburetor caught fire, also igniting the garage's car which was destroyed at the scene Thursday evening. Andrew Lizana,

Saves Lives . . . New Automotive Safety Device

What doesn't require batteries or matches and lights up at night?

A new automotive safety device that experts say could reduce dangerous nighttime and daytime rear-end accidents which presently occur at an average of 1,200 a day.

Its trade name is Lifesaver, and its shape isn't round with a hole in the center, but square—ten feet square.

Made of durable, Dupont Tyvek material, Lifesaver is a 36 by 40 inch safety banner with highly visible, "Day-Glo Blaze Orange" directional arrows outlined in bright silver reflecting Plectolite, which allows it to be seen for hundreds of yards, both day and night, in any weather.

The emergency banner quickly and simply unfolds and attaches to the lifted trunk lid and rear-end bumper, and according to highway safety officials who have tested it, Lifesaver gets its "move-aside, pass-with-caution" message across far in advance of any trouble.

Its inventor, Eugene W. Murphy, is a technical systems entrepreneur whose dissatisfaction with conventional safety devices prompted him to develop the emergency banner.

"Road flares are dangerous," he said. "They can cause fires, from roadside shrubbery and explosions from spilled gasoline. They're short-lived, not re-usable, and are hazardous to handle—a situation most people would rather avoid."

"Also, hazard-warning lights are dependent upon a fully functional electrical system in the car. Thus, if a vehicle is disabled with a dead battery, the warning system won't function at all."

Murphy added that Lifesaver eliminates this, as it requires no electrical source of any kind. "And unlike flares or hazard-warning lights, Lifesaver never wears out."

Murphy also points out that warning triangles are expensive, very bulky and heavy to carry, and can easily be knocked down by a passing car. "Also, the triangle's instructions require the user to leave the vehicle and walk down the highway to place them in the proper positions, which is a danger in itself," Murphy added.

Recently, Murphy's safety device won the U.S. Government's Vehicle Safety Award.

Safety experts with the Federal Occupational and Health Administration (OSHA) describe the Lifesaver as being a "simple, inexpensive, safe and reliable product which is a significant contribution in the prevention of rear-end collisions."

The wind-resistant, waterproof emergency banner, now being marketed by Lifesaver Industries, Inc., at 6210 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 90048, sells for under $10.00, and can be found in the automotive section in retail stores.

"It does what it says," inventor Murphy proudly said. "It saves lives."

LIGNITE MINING COMING
Just when Mississippi landowners will start receiving royalties from their lands leased for lignite production depends on when industry determines that it has had it with soaring natural gas and oil prices.

That day apparently is drawing near, according to Jim McGaughy, an official of Mississippi Power & Light Company who addressed the annual meeting last week of the Mississippi Association of Conservation Districts.

As director of power production for the Mississippi facility, McGaughy said the 70's saw the cost of natural gas increase 1,000 percent and oil even more. Motivated mainly by the cost factor, and too by waning availability, MP&L began moving to other less costly and more available fuels to meet their needs.

"Mississippi Power Company," McGaughy reported, "is currently operating two coal plants—one in Gulfport and one in Jackson county. The Gulfport plant is using a high sulfur midwestern coal shipped by barge. The more recently built Jackson county plant is using a low sulfur western coal shipped by rail."

A third plant, the power spokesman said, is a South Mississippi Electric Power Association facility at Purvis near Hattiesburg which uses medium sulfur eastern Kentucky coal obtained by rail.

McGaughy said that the completion of the Grand Gulf Nuclear Station's second unit in 1984 would decrease his company's dependence upon oil and gas to approximately 50 percent of their total generation. He added that a coal-fired plant in DeSoto county, under consideration for completion in the late 1980's, should decrease their dependence on oil and gas even further as they would use oil and gas for only peaking purposes.

Coal for the DeSoto plant would come from three possible sources—either low sulfur coal brought here by rail or barge, or far western coal transported as a liquid mix in a slurry pipeline, or from strip mining from Mississippi's five billion ton reserves of lignite—an energy equivalent of ten billion barrels of oil, and at present demand levels, enough to light up Mississippi for the next 500 years.

The power official said that conventional shipping of coal into Mississippi triples its costs. The slurry pipeline would reduce transportation costs, but lignite's local availability in great quantities would give a great transportation advantage to lignite even though it would produce less BTU's per pound than the higher grades of coal. Lignite ash, the primary waste product of the coal burning process, should be totally marketable in the concrete industry, while only part of the ash from other coals could be totally utilized.

The reason lignite has not already been utilized, McGaughy said, is that it is expensive to mine. It is 150 to 200 feet beneath surface and located in large quantities of water.

One mine would utilize about 15 to 20 thousand acres to supply the eight million tons needed annually to fuel two 700 megawatt generating units. A mine would employ about 470 persons with an annual payroll of about $12 million. It would require an initial investment of about $250 million. The mine would involve only a few thousand acres at any one time and reclamation of the land as required by law would take place simultaneously with the mining process with the land left in equal or better condition after removal of the lignite.

Real Estate

BY GAIL PRESSMAN, GRI
REALTOR

A GOOD TIME TO BUY

Now is the time to buy a home. Regardless of what the interest rate may be, the longer a prospective home buyer waits, the more he will have to pay for the house when he finally decides to act. Anyone who waits for mortgage rates or selling costs to drop is being unrealistic. Cost of housing increased considerably last year and will continue to increase. The main monster we have to worry about is inflation. Buying a home is the wisest first step you can make to keep up with inflation. Homes have increased faster than the inflation rate for the past ten years. There is no reason to believe why this should change in the foreseeable future.

In times of inflation, most knowledgeable investors go out of their way to purchase anything which is likely to become more valuable. For most people, that means real estate. Even at a conservative 6 percent inflation rate, the average home will double in value every twelve years. There is still an excellent variety of homes available at prices we aren't likely to see again. Today's outrageous price could be tomorrow's bargain. . . . . If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at PRESSMAN REALTY, 1332 Hwy. 90 W., Waveland. Phone 467-2224. We're here to help!

team with a full court press in the latter part of the second period.

The Bucs lead by five points with less than two minutes left in the half but fell with foul problems and the HNC five caught up with free throws.

Each team had five team fouls at the half.

On Dec. 28, at Harrison Central, Hancock North Central defeated Stone County 50-47 to move into the consolation finals.

Zachary Ladner was high scorer with 14 points.

Byron Ladner also scored in double figures with 12 points.

In the game before the match with Stone County, Hancock defeated West Marion 63-34.

Moses Hill lead the way with 16 points, followed by Steve Nunn with 15 and Byron Ladner with 13.

Hancock had earlier defeated Bay St. Louis 98-40 to move up in the bracket.

In that game played Dec. 27, Hill again lead the scoring with 26 points, Nunn followed with 15 and Zachary Ladner netted 12.

Hancock suffered a loss in their opening tournament effort to an underrated Clinton team who came out on top 46-43 in the game played Dec. 27 at Bay High.

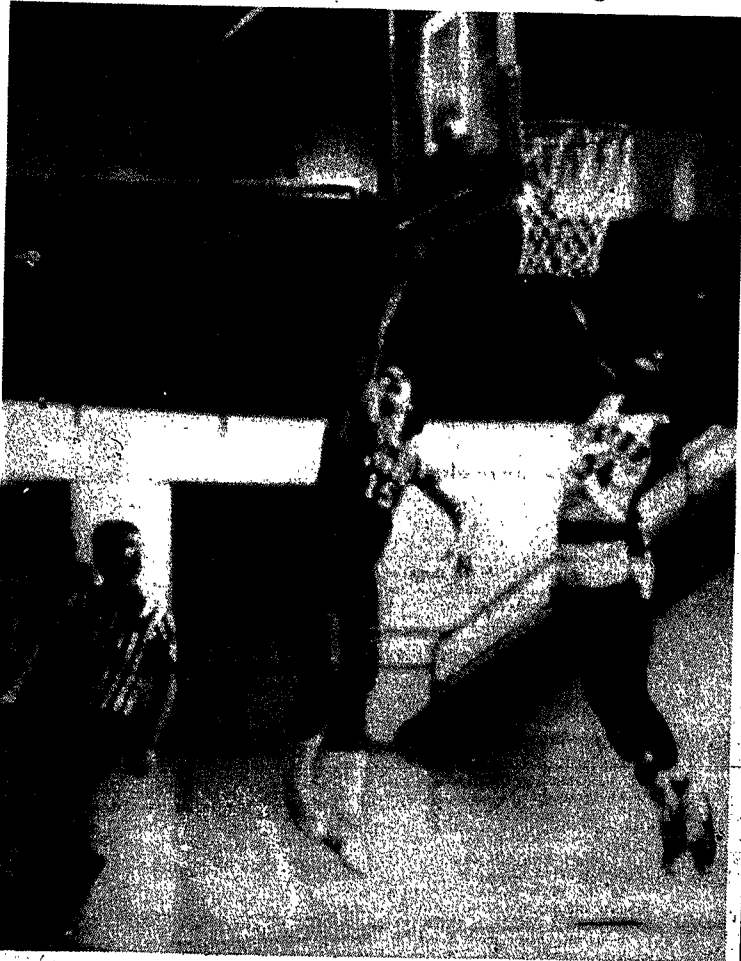

Hill lead the scoring in that game with 16 points followed by Nunn 14.

"In the game against Clinton, it was the worst I have ever seen us play in a tournament," said HNC Head Coach Roland Ladner.

"We're not doing bad with the exception of the Clinton game," he added.

Have a safe Holiday!

There will be many who will be around to welcome the New Year. Others will be greiving for those who will not be here any longer because of accidents primarily caused by driving while drinking.

Of course it is not always the person drinking who gets killed in these accidents caused by drunk drivers, the so called innocent by standers.

During the New Year Holiday, every year hundreds of Americans are killed on our highways.

We have been fortunate in our area to have gone through the Christmas Holidays without a fatality, let us all try and do the same for New Year holidays.

People are dying every day from natural causes and very little if anything can be done to save these. Those killed by drunk drivers, however, could be saved if the drinkers would not mix driving while drunk.

If you are a person who would like to welcome the New Year in with a celebration which includes drinking, please do not drive under the influence.

At a party we are sure there is someone there who could drive you home, or stay there until you sober up.

It is horrible for the hundreds killed each New Year celebration, yet many, many more are injured, some who are never able to walk again.

Welcome in the New Year, enjoy it yourself and let everyone else enjoy theirs at the same time.

Have a safe holiday!

SIX STEPS IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

At the beginning of the Civil War, Mississippi was the 10th wealthiest state in the Union, but now - almost 120 years later - we are on the bottom - 50th in per capita income.

Despite efforts to change this situation, to improve Mississippi's position among the states, we are losing ground. In 1972 the state trailed the national per capita income average by $1,145; by 1976, $1,866; and in 1978 the gap had widened to $2,074.

The Mississippi Economic Council - after a year and a half of work by a special study committee - has identified six steps for moving Mississippi off the bottom. Those steps are:

- Organize an alliance among the southern states to preserve the region's federally based economic incentives. Billions are pouring in the southern states - more than $4 billion into Mississippi each year - in the way of military installations, defense plants and operations, federal payrolls, and various federal benefit programs. A coalition has been formed of northeastern and midwestern states to influence policies and alter this flow. Mississippi and other southern states must oppose these efforts.

- Maintain and protect Mississippi's favorable business climate. The state has been identified by the National Council of State Manufacturers Associations as having the most favorable business climate in the nation. Mississippi must protect the state's right to work law, provide incentives for exploration of energy sources, preserve the state's favorable tax structure, provide incentives for business development and expansion, and promote an improvement of the state's image;

- Create within the office of the governor a cabinet-level position of senior economic advisor to further the work of the governor's office - long recognized as the center of the state's economic development efforts;
- Improve and protect the professional stature of the state's industrial development agency and its work. The new Board of Economic Development - formerly the A&I Board

- must be staffed with qualified professionals and training programs must be provided for local public officials and volunteer workers;

- Encourage the development of small home-owned businesses. Small businesses - those with 20 or fewer employees - generate two thirds of all new jobs in the U.S.; and

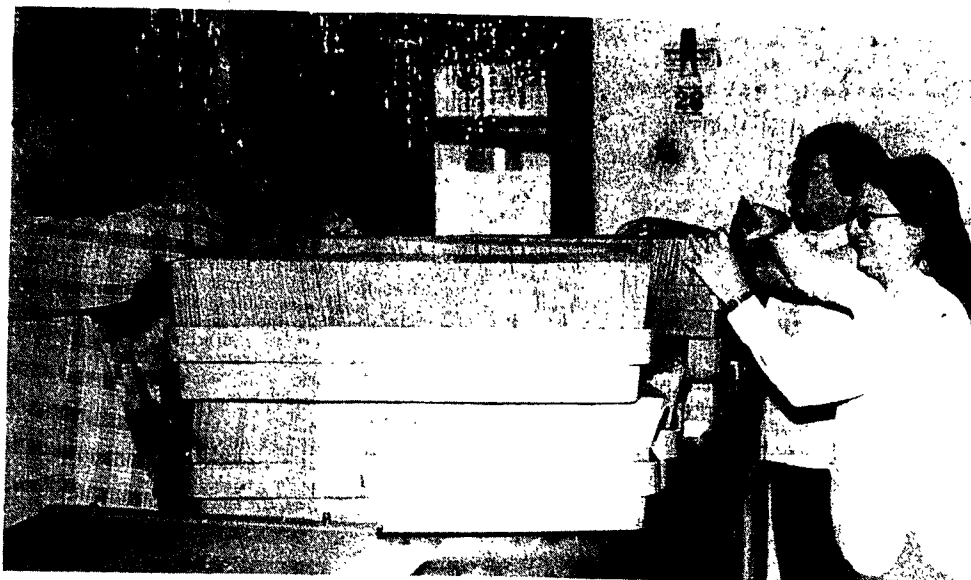

- improve the level of education of all Mississippians, concentrating on the development of basic skills in the elementary grades.

These six steps, obviously, will move us in the direction of economic prosperity.

SALTY SALLY

Many of us spend a lifetime searching for freedom and love without ever learning how to recognize or define either one.

ASSESSOR OFFERS NEW SERVICE—Residents of Hancock County who filed homestead exemptions last year will be able to do so this year by simply signing and returning a form received by mail. Edward (Eddie) Murtagh, left, assessor-tax collector; Yvonne Ladner, chief deputy; Mrs. John Wilkerson and Ms. Sarah Lusich deputy assessors, check over 5,200 forms before waiting last week. Murtagh said the new system helps save the person filing homestead exemption time and money. A person has to sign in a designated place, fill in car tag numbers and return in self addressed envelope. Murtagh said the envelope is similar to those used for car tag. Persons filing for the first time however, must come to the office and bring their deed to property, motor vehicle tag numbers and Social Security numbers. Persons 100 percent disabled under Social Security rules, regardless of age, will be eligible for a full $5,000 exemption just as persons over 65. They must apply for the exemption at the assessor's office the first time. We feel these and other improvements in Murtagh's office are of benefit to all persons and commend the assessors on his concern for his constituents, the taxpayers of Hancock County.

Bits 'n pieces

Everyone is talking, praying and showing grave concern for our hostages in Iran.

There now seems to be a concern of just how many are being held prisoner in Iran.

A statement to us a couple weeks ago by Mississippi State Representative Sonny Montgomery about the need for a strong CIA like the United States had a decade ago seems more and more important.

As you all know, the media, which includes television, radio and newspapers, blew the lid on the identity of many CIA agents, making that necessary governmental body less effective.

If anyone of you think Russia and other world powers do not have agents in this country, you are in for a rude awakening.

Read your history, even during Biblical times agents were in acting checking out the enemies of nations.

As Representative Montgomery said, we also need specially trained forces, placed in strategic places to be sent in wherever we have Americans being held, such as Iran.

Indications are, we do not have such forces readily available at this time.

We do not advocate wars, but we do advocate a strong military for the United States. We are becoming far too soft, listening to too many so-called 'do gooders.'

As we enter a new decade, the United States should make all efforts possible to build up our military. We need to put together the things which made us the nation we are, it was showing military strength.

In today's world, if we are not careful, some nation will walk right over us, just like you as an individual will be walked over by your fellowman if you are not careful.

We, as Americans, should be proud of our heritage, be proud of the fact that many of our countrymen gave their lives for this great honor.

Why should we let some little nation like Iran walk over us because we were not prepared.

And, then we ask why does the United States let them hold the hostages, when short years ago we were advocating cuts in the military.

We, like many of you, are seriously concerned about the safety and well being of our American natives being held by the Iranians as hostages. We pray that they will return home safely.

Indications are that they will never be the same, how many of you have been locked up for 50 days or so. Only a small percentage of Americans are ever locked up for any extended length of time.

The ones in America who are locked up usually have done something which was wrong.

The Americans in Iran were at our embassy-the world's cruelest man, Hitler, never invaded the privacy of an embassy. Our Nation struggles today, because we failed to be prepared.

Iran has one commodity we have learned to use more than the rest of the world put together, oil.

We can ourselves do our personal thing just by cutting down on the use of fuel, and hope our fellow Americans will return home.

Thursday fans were exposed to some very fine basketball at the Bay High Tiger Dome.

We were a little dissatisfied in the small attendance for such an important tourney especially since Bay High and Hancock North Central each played two games.

Everyone, especially the coaches from away places, were commenting about the very fine basketball court. The floor was recently replaced and many said it was the best they have ever seen in a high school gym.

In a little over a week political changes will be made in several positions in Hancock. The ones going into office seem to be wanting the swearing in day to hurry as well as most who are leaving.

We hope there will be large turnout for the swearing in on January 7 at the Courthouse.

One thing we have noticed during the holidays, and that is there seem to be fewer vehicles on the roads than in previous years in Bay St. Louis, Waveland and the County.

We hope it is a trend which will be continued in helping curb the use of gas.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

We are fairly well pleased with our promotional efforts as far as advertising and in-store displays. But we feel the need for a public relations effort to build a good image as a community member. Do we need professional help?

Dear DWNPH: Probably not. The realization of the need is the biggest step. Sometimes, recognition of a gap in the image is the hard part, and something a professional could help indicate.

So if you feel a real need, there probably is one.

And the best way to build a good image is to do good things.

There are a number of attempts to shorten the process, but most are all too transparent and ultimately have an adverse effect.

Too much drum beating also is a turn-off for the rest of the community. So the ticket is picking out genuine projects and quietly setting out to pursue the goals you set.

It usually make more sense to select projects for which your firm has a logical reason to be interested in. But anything you have strong feelings about will suffice. Recognition will follow, usually with a minimum of prompting from you. Again, too much horn blowing can make your efforts seem to be less than sincere.

It's usually not enough for the owner or boss to carry out the effort; far more effective is a total effort of everyone on the staff.

But in your zeal to do good works, don't overlook the main expectation most of the community holds for your business.

That is to provide your regular goods and services at the best possible prices, and to make known your offerings through regular advertising.

Public relations is not just something you do as special problems arise.

It is the total attitude of you and your firm as demonstrated in day-to-day dealings with all the various groups with which you must come in contact.

Meteorologists of yesteryear fortold weather accurately

As I drove down Jackson Landing Road, southwest of Piquette, one morning about 10 o'clock, I saw Rob Stockstill with a sack over his shoulder, walking toward Pearl River. I invited him to ride with me.

I asked, "Where are you going?" He replied, "Down in the swamp." It was cloudy and looked like it might rain at any minute. In fact there had been a shower shortly before that time.

"Aren't you afraid you'll get wet?" I asked. "Morning showers are like an old woman's dance - they don't last long." And he proved to be right, for it did not rain any more that day.

Back to 65 to 70 years ago there was no weather news in the papers warning of impending storms or bad weather. If there had been weather news in the papers, few rural people would have known about it as practically no daily papers were taken by people out in the country.

There were no radios like we have today to broadcast the news, nor were there any TV stations to foretell weather changes. Every man had to be his own weather prophet.

People back then took the weather as it came, without any forewarning from papers, radio or TV.

Because so much depended on the weather, just as it does today, most people, especially farmers, constantly studied the weather.

Because they did observe the weather so closely and were so interested in it, they knew all the old signs and were alert to all weather changes.

I knew old men in the area where I grew up who were uncanny in their ability to foretell the weather, not only for one day, but for days ahead. They had to study the weather and be fairly accurate in their judgments back then as a matter of self-protection.

Now, there is little need for a person to be informed on ways of foretelling the weather, as one can turn on the radio or TV, or pick up the paper and find out what is forecast. But back in the old days if a man killed his hogs at the wrong time because of lack of weather information he would suffer big loss.

If he went off on a trip and got caught in a freezing blizzard, took pneumonia and almost lost his life. I actually believe that these old men, trained all their lives in predicting the weather from natural phenomena, were nearly as accurate about the weather as the men we see and hear on TV. Accurate knowledge of the weather is another ability in which old timers far excelled the men of today.

If the animals on the place grew heavier hair and the wild things had thicker fur than usual, this was considered a sure sign of a cold winter when I was growing up, 80 years ago.

When frogs croaked more than usual in an old pond near our house, my father would say, "It is going to rain," and usually it did rain.

When the big saw mills were operating in Piquette with their smokestacks rearing into the sky, most people would watch the action of the smoke from the smoke stacks to make their guesses about the weather. If the smoke rose high into the air and gradually disappeared, that was a sure sign of fair weather, but if the smoke would rise only a short distance and, as it cooled, float back toward the ground, that was a sign of rain.

Back out in the country where I grew up, there were no smokestacks, but my father would watch the smoke from the chimneys when cold enough to have a fire in the home, and the flue from the stove in the kitchen in summer.

If there was a heavy dew in the early morning, back in the old days, the farmer would figure that it was safe to cut hay, as this was a sign of dry weather, but if there was no dew, it was thought the moisture had gone up and would soon come back down - in other words, a sign of rain.

If buzzards flew high that was considered a sign of rain. It was said that these big birds flew high to get above any clouds that might form, and to get out of a damp atmosphere.

Unusual activity of birds in the trees around the place was considered a sure sign that windy, probably stormy, weather was coming soon.

My mother used to watch spider webs of which there were usually many in the shrubbery around our home. If the spider webs tightened up, and the spiders ran extra brazen across the webs to reinforce them, it was going to rain and probably be windy. If the spider webs hung loose

Hancock, Harrison welfare workers attend conference

A select group of 47 social workers from county welfare offices around the state attended a five-day workshop on basic communication skills recently at the University of Mississippi. The program was made possible by a Title XX teaching grant to the social work program at Ole Miss, in cooperation with the State Department of Public Welfare, and was coordinated by the University's Division of Continuing Education.

"We feel that with programs like this one, we are getting training in the latest techniques straight from the campuses," said Barbara Tucker, manpower development specialist in the Office of Training, State Department of Public Welfare.

"Specialized training in basic communication skills is needed by social workers to give better service to clients," she added.

"Communication skills are of vital importance to public welfare social workers, and this program was designed to help social workers develop these skills further," said Dr. Gary Mooers, UM associate professor of social work and director of the social work program.

Attending the workshop from the Harrison County Welfare Office were Barbara Lindberg, Bay St. Louis; Shelley Maxie and Elaine Roderick, Gulfport; and Pat Trochessett, Pascagoula.

Representing the Hancock County Welfare Office was Susan Smith of Waveland.

There is one sure sign of rain that I have often experienced myself. I have a corn, or callous on the little toe of my left foot. A few hours before it rains after it has been dry weather for a while, that toe will begin to ache. In dry weather it never bothers me. One old man I knew said, "I can always tell when a change in the weather is coming by the way my corns feel."

Another sign of rain is when the salt in the salt shaker will not shake out. However, it is my experience that this occurs after the rain gets here, and is not of much value in foretelling the rain.

Still another sign of rain is when flies and other insects tick tight to you, and maybe bite. And they used to say that when your nose itches, someone is coming with a hole in his britches.

While we pay little attention to the old signs now, or ignore them altogether, back in the old days they were most important for much depended on what the weather did, even as it does today.

Lakers Guard in Reserve

Kareem Abdul Jabbar, Gail Goodrich, Bill Walton... The list of UCLA graduates who play professional basketball goes on and on. Some say that there have been teams at UCLA which could have played in the National Basketball Association. To play for the Bruins is to have pro scouts watch your every move.

However, to play for Virginia Military Institute, a school known for turning out civic and military leaders, and have any hope of making it to the pros might be termed, by some, a fantasy. VMI is not known for its basketball.

Ron Carter, former All American and holder of three VMI scoring records and a fistful of other basketball honors, is, perhaps, a believer in the fantastic. Selected in the second round of the 1978 NBA draft, Ron has just finished his rookie season with the Los Angeles Lakers.

"It was a real culture shock for me to come out of a strict military environment at VMI to the glamour of professional sports," said Carter of the transition from collegiate to professional.

Between seasons, however, the 6'4" guard is stopping back into a military environment. All VMI students are also ROTC cadets and earn a commission as an officer in the military along with their degree. Ron chose the U.S. Army Reserve and with an economics degree under his belt, the Army Finance Corps was a natural. This summer he is attending the Finance Officer's Basic Course at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana.

Asked about this, his first military assignment, Carter said, "I'm feeling my way around right now, getting some practical experience in financial management. I UCLA feel very good about it because I know I can't play pro ball forever and this will give me something very solid to sell in the civilian job market."

Following the military training, Ron will be heading to the Lakers' camp to start working toward making the team once again.

Port's largest employer plans facility expansion

By EDGAR PEREZ

While some industries at Hancock County's Port Bienville Industrial Park near Pearlinton are experiencing cutbacks and layoffs, a Louisiana-based barge building operation and the park's largest employer is reporting "phenomenal success and growth."

Wilson W. Webre, director of the Hancock Port and Harbor Commission which administers the industrial park, said this week Bergeron Marine Inc. "is rapidly becoming a major factor in the economic development of Hancock County."

A wholly owned subsidiary of Bergeron Industries, Inc. of St. Bernard, La., the company specializes in the new construction and repair of barges.

The company began production at its Port Bienville Marine facility in March, 1978.

The first barge built here by Bergeron slid down the launch-ways one month later.

This barge was the forerunner of many that were to follow, and by December of 1979, the 53rd barge built at Port Bienville was launched.

Currently, a new barge is constructed and launched every four working days at the Bergeron yard.

Initially, Bergeron's operation at Port Bienville was confined to the construction of new barges, however, the company recently entered the repair business when it was awarded a contract to refurbish a fleet of LASH barges by Central Gulf Lines, Inc., the world's largest LASH carrier.

This new endeavor required a substantial capital outlay for engineering, design, construction, and installation of specialized equipment and facilities.

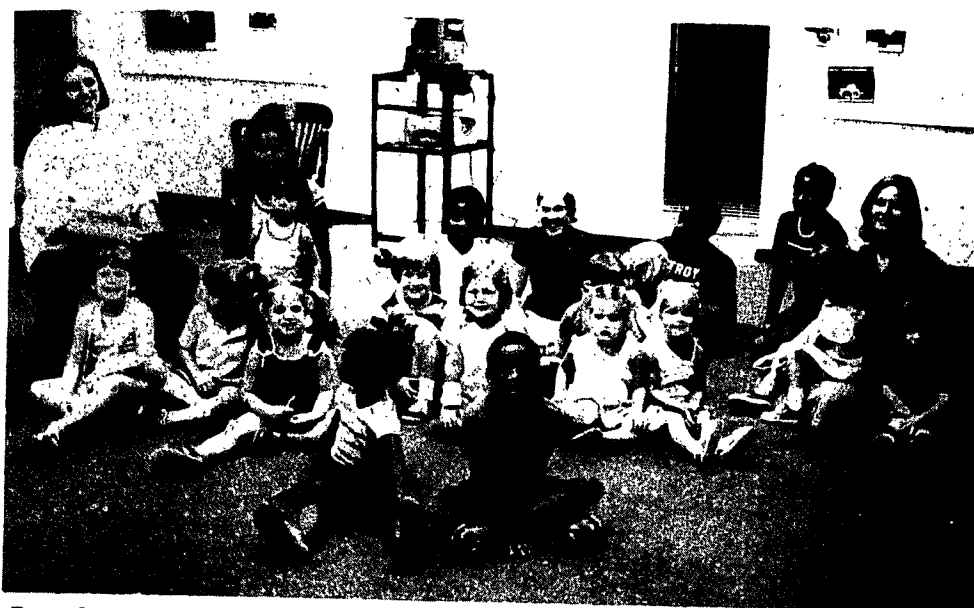

Currently ranked as the leading producer of barges in the state, Bergeron Marine also has the distinction of now being the largest employer in the Port Bienville Industrial Park.

William T. Bergeron, president of Bergeron Industries, Inc., noted, "The success and growth experienced by Bergeron Marine has been phenomenal."

"Every objective set by our management has not only been met but, in many instances, have been surpassed. To say that we are well pleased with our Port Bienville operations would be an understatement," Bergeron added.

"From the outset of our company's decision to locate in Mississippi, we have enjoyed a splendid relationship with the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, its members, director and staff. Because of a favorable business climate in Hancock County and the State we are planning future expansion of our operations at Port Bienville through continued progress and diversification," Bergeron said.

jail sentence on both counts, suspended provided he return to Florida for treatment of "...papillary adenocarcinoma left lobe of thyroid, multiple pulmonary nodules of about 10 years duration and glaucoma of eyes, all of which he is afflicted according to a VA Hospital spokesman in Florida," the chief explained.

Gravely was arrested by St. Tammy Parish deputies near the intersection of I-10 and I-12 Tuesday evening.

Chief Williams said Saturday he found Gravely is apparently a very sick person, checks with officials in Florida revealed.

Williams commented, "I called the sheriff of Petersburg, County, Fla. and he could not find where Gravely had ever been in trouble. I also called a person who lived close to him and had known him for over 50 years and was told he had never been in trouble."

"The VA hospital spokesman told me he was a very sick person and was in need of treatment and was under the care of a Dr. Okano.

The alleged child molesting took place on Tuesday morning, according to Chief Williams and when it was reported to his office later, Waveland Police were called and given a description of a van Gravely was driving.

Waveland authorities in turn called the St. Tammy Sheriff's office.

Gravely was returned to Hancock County jail and held there until the Friday hearing, after which he was released to return to Florida, Williams reported.

Bay Police answering the call were Harris Boudreaux and Assistant Chief Frank Hess.

The case was investigated by Jim Mallini, Bay PD investigator.

Appointments.....CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A

Courrage will reappoint Harry Baxter to the port commission, Mary Callier to the Park Commission and Mittie Brelaud to the Welfare Board.

Beat 3 Supervisor-elect Roger Dale Ladner has not decided his appointees to the Park Commission and Welfare Board.

Beat 4 Supervisor Sam Perniciaro does not foresee any changes in previous appointments.

Perniciaro will reappoint Ronnie Artigues to the Port and Harbor Commission, Ena Piazza to the Welfare Department and Shelton Seuzeneau to the Park Commission.

Beat 5 Supervisor James Travirca will also reappoint his current representatives.

Port Commissioner Dave McDonald will be reappointed along with Lewis Bergeron to the Park Commission and Emile Hazeur to the Welfare Department.

According to Circuit Clerk John Rutherford, representatives to the County Hospital Board, County Planning Commission, Gulf Regional Planning Commission and Gulf Coast Mosquito Control Commission are on staggered terms which will expire in various years.

The appointments to the County Port and Harbor Commission, the Park Commission and Welfare Department will be formally announced at the regular supervisors' meeting Monday, Jan. 7, along with appointment of board president, vice president and attorney.

resign—he did give me a resignation and then he withdrew it."

The Echo learned Saturday Superintendent-elect Billy Sills was consulted by phone at his home at 7 p.m. Friday night by the board for his feelings about Haddock's resignation.

Sills apparently indicated to the board since Haddock is under a one-year contract which runs until August, 1980, he should fulfill that contract.

"The main purpose of the meeting was to hire a special education teacher for the Silver Creek School but this didn't materialize," Randolph stated.

When asked when the board planned to have its budget meeting, Randolph said the meeting would be Jan. 5, "but I believe there's suppose to be a couple more meetings before that one."

The board was expected to meet with Sills Saturday morning to discuss system finances with the incoming superintendent.

WEATHER REPORT

All of Mississippi except for the northeastern counties should have near normal temperatures and below normal precipitation, according to the National Weather Service Outlook distributed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

In the northeastern counties, above normal temperatures and precipitation are expected, say agrometeorologists at the Environmental Studies Service Center in Stoneville who prepare the report.

Winter should get down to serious business now with winter storms possible. Low temperatures could reach the single digits in the north and the teens in the southern half of the state.

Mississippi poultrymen should be happy with the prediction of near normal temperatures and the potential saving of fuel.

However, normal temperatures are still cold, and winter storms are possible. Poultrymen need to be ready to take quick action to prevent chill stress, especially on young birds.

Cattlemen are in much the same boat as poultrymen, say the weather experts. Winter weather can cause calves to be lost, especially at birth.

Stockman will want to check herds frequently to get as good a calf crop as possible.

The State's crop situation looks relatively good. All crops are harvested except for a few acres of cotton. Some land preparation has been done, but much more remains.

With four inches of precipitation possible in this period and slow drying, preparation of land will be at a standstill.

Producers storing grain will want to remain alert for three- or four-day periods of cool temperatures and low humidity to aerate grain.

Book Review

Architecture and Energy: Conserving Energy Through Rational Design

By Richard G. Stein, Anchor Press-Doubleday, 1977, $12.95. In this pertinent book, Mr. Stein discusses building problems in relation to the energy crisis. Its message affects a broad spectrum of society, from architects and designers to programmers, engineers, city planners, utility companies, manufacturers of building products, government agencies, building authorities and tenants.

Modern architecture has become excessively dependent on mechanization instead of abiding by the functional requirements of climate and weather.

The author stresses that architects must stop ignoring the interdependence of the physical world in their designs and halt an increasingly wanton use of energy.

He offers ways to escape this dependence and overconfidence in mechanical systems through rational design practices, where aesthetics are still important and coexistence with the natural world is enhanced.

General

Each midshipman has extensive foreign travel on summer cruises (i.e., Europe, the Orient, etc.).

There are substantial leave periods during the summer and academic year holidays.

There are tremendous opportunities to make lifetime friendships with fine people.

Your classmates are of the highest caliber.

Baltimore and Washington are readily accessible for Midshipmen are selected to escort White House guests, foreign dignitaries and etc.

June Week festivities are world famous.

Midshipman's pay allows for plenty of spending money per month: Sample figures - 1st year - $50; 2nd year - $90; 3rd year - $140; 4th year - $250. These are approximate amounts with additional amounts given at the time of Christmas leave.

All midshipmen receive training in etiquette, dancing and the social graces.

Midshipmen frequently meet high government officials and influential people. Annapolis is located close to many colleges and universities.

You will have the opportunity to serve important causes and reach high goals. Your opportunities will be world wide in scope.

At approximately 42 years of age, you will be eligible for outstanding retirement benefits, including around $10,000 per year cash, free medical service, and commissary privileges.

If you return to civilian life, you do so with five years of valuable leadership experience.

You will have the additional advantage of handling varied jobs and assignments.

Twenty percent of the country's largest 200 corporations have Naval higher education.

MANY SPORTS OFFERED-Sailing is just one of many sports offered at the United States Naval Academy. Members of the varsity sailing crew are in the Sugar Bowl Regatta this week on Lake Pontchartrain. Over 20 varsity sports are offered men and eight women at the Naval Academy.

Diamondhead News

The new fleet of electric golf carts should be in use by Jan. 15 and the fourth nine hole course open by June.

Joe Paulin, our new golf course superintendent, is a graduate agronomist and the present courses are already beginning to show improvement.

The Ladies' Golf Association had 37 players in the Scramble and 47 for the luncheon.

Jane Moses won the television for the closest to a hole-in-one. John Muniz donated the T.V.

Connie Carter and Marge Pfingfelder were in charge of decorations and John Carter painted Santa Claus faces on the gift golf balls for each lady.

Bob Stanton donated $5 gift certificates to the players.

Sylvia Pross presided over the meet and announced Willie Solomon as new president and Corrine Ladner as vice-president and tournament chairperson.

Bob Stanton announced the Diamondhead Men's Golf Association will have monthly tournaments on the third Saturday of each month with tee-off at 9 a.m.

Men's Day will be each Wednesday with 12:30 p.m. tee-time and Ladies' Day will be each Thursday with 9 a.m. tee-time.

Southern Mississippi Seniors played at Sunkist this month and will play at Pass Christian Isles January-10. Bob Pfingfelder, Irl Bull, Bob Solomon, Herman Makofsky, Milton Haggard and Arnold Leshin represented Diamondhead. Diamondhead volunteer Fire Department has postponed its meeting until 7:30 Tuesday, Jan. 8 at the fire station.

The Yacht Club will reopen Jan. 2 and remain open seven days a week through Jan. 15. The Country Club will reopen Jan. 18.

Harrie and Blanche Devine hosted a covered dish dinner at their home for the 33rd Flotilla of the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Twenty-one members attended the Christmas party. Harrie Devine is commander of the unit. Fire Safety Administrator Ed Friloux said no aerial fireworks will be permitted. Firecrackers must be discharged in cleared areas. No rockets!!

A Scout breakfast from 7 a.m. to noon Jan. 13 and Open House at 1:00 p.m. Jan. 27 are slated at the new fire building. Jack Burke is the assistant scoutmaster and Friloux is scoutmaster.

Allen Shapter, tennis director, with Mrs. Shapter, son Guy and daughter Brook, will return Feb. 1 after a month in Australia.

Tennis World has eight courts and an excellent location for tennis fans.

Ed Denys, Stan Haight, Jack Boudreaux, Al Doussan and Jim Diltz won the Men's Golf Association tourney. Individual low nets were: Ed Denys, first; Stan Haight, second; Rudy Glaser, third; and Jim Hoskins and John Carter, fourth.

Hospital youth in holiday fete

Twigs, youth branch of the Gulfport Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, held its annual Christmas dinner recently at Turner's Cafe in Gulfport with approximately 75 in attendance.

Mrs. Melvina Carr, house president for Twigs, welcomed the group.

Dr. W. T. Gulce pronounced the invocation. Following the Christmas meal, the program consisted of Christmas carols, scripture by Rev. Roger O. Tyler and a solo by Mrs. Mamie Gaines. Ms. Ada Reid, adviser to the Twigs, spoke to the group on "What I Want for Christmas."

Following comments by the President, Mrs. Martha King, gifts were distributed.

The program committee included Mrs. Melvina Carr, chairman; Mrs. Mary Norwood, Mrs. Clara Dew, and Mrs. Marguerite Knight.

Mrs. Carr served as mistress of ceremony.

Coming Year Prayer

COMING YEAR PRAYER

O year that is going take with you
Impatience and wilfulness - pride;
The sharp word that slips
From the too hasty lips
I would cast, with the old year, aside.
O year that is coming, bring with you
Some virtues of which I have need;
More patience to bear
And more kindness to share
And more love that is true love indeed.

Notice To Hancock County Home Owners

IN EARLY JANUARY, 1980, The Hancock County Assessor's office will mail to each home owner, on record, a Homestead Exemption application. This application will be mailed to you in an envelope that can be used to return the application after it is signed and will include return postage. (These special envelopes are similar to the Motor Vehicle envelopes now being used for your tag billings.) When you receive Homestead Exemption application; simply sign on the line designated, fill in Motor Vehicle tag numbers, tear off the back copy for your records and return the white, yellow and pink copies to this office. This is the first time that this service is being offered to the home owners of Hancock County and we feel that some minor problems could arise. If you do not receive your Homestead Exemption application within a reasonable time contact this office by calling 467-5727 or for those citizens living in the Poyune School District 798-8555.

Effective starting in January of 1980, those persons 100 percent disabled, under Federal Social Security, regardless of age, will be eligible for the full $5,000 exemption just as those who are 65 years of age. Those citizens who are qualified as 100 percent disabled under Federal Social Security must come to the office to complete another application. (If it is not convenient for you to come to the office, we will make arrangements to file your application with as little inconvenience as possible.)

Those citizens who are filing their Homestead Exemption application for the first time, must come to the office to file their application and should bring their deed to the property, Motor Vehicle numbers and Social Security Numbers. If this is not convenient please advise us and we will arrange to file your application in accord with your convenience. Those citizens who have any changes to be made in their application must also come to the office and have a new application filled out for them.

This service is being offered with the intention of offering the best service possible with the least inconvenience to the people of Hancock County.

SENIOR CITIZEN EVENTS

MS. PETE CARR

The week between Christmas and the New Year-another ending and a new beginning.

A time for new memories from this Christmas to be tucked away and relived in our quieter moments.

Sister Bernice from Bay Catholic Elementary brought a singing group of children from the school to entertain the Day Care group.

Alas-when Sister arrived the Day Care group had just left for the day. Somehow because of the hectic pre-holiday week and year-end reports that had to be completed at the Center, Sister Bernice's group had been overlooked.

Rosine Jushaway came to the rescue as usual, and rounded up all members still in the Center, gathering them up and directing them to the dining hall and the show went on!

Gerry Blanchard in the meantime rounded up Christmas candies and cookies and presented them to the children.

Thank you, Sister Bernice for being so gracious and understanding, and while your audience was small the show was enjoyed.

The Free Spirit Gospel Group also visited us again with their voices raised in song.

To all the people of Hancock County who have contributed their time and or their donated goodies to our Center in making this another successful Christmas, God Bless You and Thank You.

On a personal note, Sunday my husband and I spent the day with our children at our annual Christmas get together.

The children take turns in holding this affair. We always wear casual clothes as with so many children and grandchildren and great grand children about us it is more comfortable.

We spent a lovely day together and my husband and I were caught up in a web of emotion and love. God Bless them all.

We rushed home as we wanted to attend the Cantata at the Main Street United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis. It was raining when we arrived home and we were tired.

We debated about going and had only ten minutes to make it. On impulse I said, "They practiced for months-let's go!"

We didn't have time to change into more appropriate clothes, but what a wonderful way to end the day!

The Cantata was beautiful and my husband and I came home spiritually refreshed with the sound of the marvelous voices ringing in our ears.

Eve McDonald and the staff wish to add a few words:

The Senior Citizens donated a beautiful ceramic magnolia to Peoples Federal Savings and Loan in appreciation of their monthly donation of cakes for our birthday parties. The Senior Citizens also donated a ceramic hibiscus to Security Savings and Loan for their monthly cakes. Both of these institutions have been so thoughtful and helpful to our programs for several years and we wanted them to have something made by the seniors as a reminder of our gratitude.

Messages to you from the staff: Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

Eve: You seniors are the greatest group of people I have ever been around and I thank you for the opportunity of working with you.

Jim: Have a wonderful Holiday-see you in '80.

Gerry: HO! HO! HO!

Rosine: A special hug and kiss to all of you from me and my boys.

Pam: Come to dinner-see you at lunch.

Ernestine: Had a wonderful year, hope you did too. Susan: The little blond elf says, "Merry Christmas."

Deborah: God loves you and so do I.

Tommy: Looking forward to the new year.

Rev. Hall: Have a Blessed Christmas!

Beth: See you in '80-I missed you.

Celeste: Enjoyed working with you.

Mr. Ridgely: Best wishes!

Lucille, Theresa and Charles: Loving is giving and volunteers gave.

And let us not forget the Sea Coast Echo staff for their kind cooperation throughout the year.....God Bless You All.

ADDING FISH TO THE FAMILY

Pet owners in growing numbers are becoming fish enthusiasts. And aquariums in pet shops and dimestores are well stocked with a wide selection ranging from the hardy goldfish to exotic, saltwater tropical fish.

Novice fish fanciers often make the mistake of buying the fish first and setting up the aquarium second. This is often fatal to the fish. Water is a fish's total environment, and should be carefully prepared in advance.

If the water supply in your area contains chlorine or fluoride compounds, it is essential that they be eliminated. Chlorine will evaporate if the water is aged in a wide-mouthed, open container for two or three days.

When the water is ready, the

Norden Laboratories

Aging, however, will not eliminate the fluoride compounds. These can be neutralized by adding a chemical compound available in pet shops.

Water for a saltwater aquarium is prepared in this same fashion, with the addition of a special blend of "salt," also available at the pet store.

When the water is ready, the tank can be partly filled and plants rooted in a layer of coarse, washed sand. Plants should be arranged on a slight slope from back to front, and the rest of the water added.

Finally, the filter, pump and thermostat should be positioned, and the filtration system started. In a day or two the water temperature will stabilize, the pump will remove any passing cloudiness and the aquarium will be ready for the fish.

Fish owners are often tempted to overstock their aquariums. In a tank with no aeration system, you should calculate one inch of fish (excluding tail) per gallon of water.

A good air pump will let you double the stocking capacity of the tank, since water in motion will absorb a great deal more oxygen.

The fish you stock should be compatible in size and temperament. With a little study, you can learn about individual differences in varieties—those fish that do best in pairs and those that tolerate other smaller fish.

Since one sick fish can infect all others in the aquarium, choose your specimens carefully. The fish should swim evenly, and have no spots or mother signs of fungus on its body.

If the tail is not in good condition or the body is misshapen, you should choose another fish.

The work is not over when your fish have adjusted to their new home. Water in a functioning aquarium is a constantly changing medium; waste products from the plants and fish, minerals dissolving from decorative rocks and water added to compensate for evaporation can change the water's pH (the acid-base ratio).

A pH kit can help you determine the water's acid level and adjust it to your fishes' needs.

Even in a well-regulated aquarium, you may eventually notice a fish with suspicious white spots, or one with limp fins that stays near the bottom.

These are only two of the signs that can indicate illness.

Ich, the most common disease of aquarium fish, is identified by white pinhead-sized spots scattered over the body and fins.

Fuzzy, irregular cotton-like patches on the fish are signs of fungal infection. They generally occur on a fish that already has a bruise or other skin injury.

Treatment for these problems varies. Bacterial infections are best controlled by antibiotics, while fungus growths can be treated with dilute antiseptic solutions.

Often a warm saltwater bath can be used to encourage parasites to loosen their hold on the fish's skin, so the parasites can be exposed to the proper medication.

Your veterinarian may be able to recommend a reference book that will list the proper concentrations and types of remedies for your tropical fish.
